

Woman Found Dead In Bed at Ortale Home

Also Known as Miss Beatrice Kelsey, Who Recently Gave Birth to Baby, Is Found Dead In Bed at Ortale Home

Miss Beatrice Kelsey, 26, of Harwick street, who is also known as Miss Beatrice Kelsey, was found dead in bed at the home of Robert Ortale at his home, 100 Broadway, Sunday morning. The body was found by the coroner's men.

Mr. Kelsey had only recently been discharged from the Kingston City Hospital where she gave birth to a baby about the first of this year. She was visited on New Year's Day at the hospital by her father, Fred Kelsey, and at that time she told him she was coming home again as she would be coming home about Wednesday. That was the last seen of her by Mr. Kelsey. The young woman was the adopted daughter of the Kelseys.

Sergeant James V. Simpson, of the police department, and Coroner Conner made a preliminary investigation when the death of the woman was called to their attention.

Woman Asked for Shelter. They talked with Robert Ortale, in whose bed she was found dead, and according to Ortale's story the woman had come to his house Sunday night and asked if she could not remain over night. He said he gave her shelter.

About 4 o'clock this morning, according to Ortale's story to the authorities, he had gone to his bedroom and found her in his bed. He said he tried to awaken her but she did not respond and he thought she was soundly sleeping and left the room. Still later in the morning he returned to the room with a friend and again tried to arouse her without success.

Ortale Became Worried. Then Ortale became worried and tried to get in touch with Dr. Jacob Jacobson, who has an office in the house, but the doctor was out on a call and Ortale could not get in touch with him and waited until 9 o'clock when Dr. Jacobson appeared at his office to open up for the morning.

When Ortale told the doctor of the woman, Dr. Jacobson went to the room and found that she was dead. Dr. Jacobson immediately called up Coroner Conner who took charge of the investigation.

Husband in California. From what the police could learn the woman is married but her husband is in California. Investigation disclosed the fact that she had been a patient in the hospital over the new year where she had given birth to the baby. What has become of the baby the police so far have been unable to ascertain.

Sergeant Simpson, who was in charge of the investigation for the police, ascertained that Mrs. Kelsey was in New York City on January 5, whether she had her new born babe with her at that time is not known.

Cause of Death Undetermined. The cause of death will not be determined until the autopsy is completed.

Coroner Conner, when questioned as to the cause of death, said that he would prefer to have the autopsy reveal it. The autopsy had not been completed and the report of physicians made to the coroner at the time The Freeman went to press.

Why Ortale did not immediately report the death of the woman will also be investigated by the police as soon as they ascertain what caused death.

At the time The Freeman went to press, the authorities were still checking up on the case.

Mrs. Snyder In New Cell

Also Known as Miss Beatrice Kelsey, Who Recently Gave Birth to Baby, Is Found Dead In Bed at Ortale Home

Osining, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP).—Mrs. Snyder today was moved to a new cell in the Sing Sing prison death house, while a minute examination was made of her old quarters.

The condemned woman was issued new bedding and clothing and the more was made without previous warning to her. Warden Lawes said the change in cells was merely a precautionary measure to prevent possible secreting of any measures of self destruction.

Prison officials had discovered that Mrs. Snyder was in the habit of corresponding with her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, through notes hidden in a wash room and it was feared that something might have been smuggled to the condemned woman through the same system. They refused to say whether the search revealed anything.

London Hopes Flood Is Over

Tide Came In This Morning Without Destruction—Precautions Will Be Continued Until After High Tides of Tuesday.

London, Jan. 9 (AP).—As tides ebbed and flowed without recurrence of disaster, London today dared to hope that the anger of the Thames had subsided.

The army of workmen, who fought to stem the rush of waters after the reign of terror, destruction and death of Saturday, continued on alert, however. Precautions will be continued until after the high tides of tomorrow.

The air ministry warned of a probable renewal of the gale which brought the abnormal tide and flood of last week. The upper Thames has fallen somewhat, but is still swollen and therefore no protective measure will be neglected.

At 3 o'clock this morning the tide came and went without destruction. Thousands of those who dwell by the river went to bed then, their vigil against the rush of waters ended for another twelve hours.

There was no sleep, however, for those who labored to prevent a fresh catastrophe. All night long they worked strengthening the ram-part of sandbags and clay along Grosvenor Road and in front of that of the gallery.

Others who regarded the flooding of London as a spectacle were present in the evening dress, who had come from night clubs and dances, lined the Victoria embankment.

No accurate estimate of the damage wrought Saturday was possible today. Reports which were accumulating, however, indicated that it would be large. The loss of life with the greatest severity among the dwellers of the poorer districts, where much furniture was destroyed, carpets and bedding soaked while the lower rooms were coated with a thick layer of slime and mud.

New Auto Models Shown in Parade

The George J. Schryver Motor Car Company, local distributors for the Overland and Willys-Knight line of automobiles, staged a parade about Kingston Saturday afternoon which attracted the attention of the public and introduced the new line of Whippet automobiles to Kingstonians in a very impressive manner.

With horns blowing, the gaily decorated cars were driven through the principal streets of the city and then a trip was made to Saugerties, and through Woodstock and back to Kingston. All along the line there was genuine interest.

In the parade were five of the new Whippet models including one of the new Cabriolet-coupe models which was conveyed along the line of march on a large gaily decorated truck.

Report Tells What Power of Justices State Troopers Do

Also Known as Miss Beatrice Kelsey, Who Recently Gave Birth to Baby, Is Found Dead In Bed at Ortale Home

Their Usefulness to the Public Shown by Report of Troop C, Members of Which Patrol Three Counties.

Now and then someone asks "What do the State Troopers do except ride around and look pretty?" The answer to this question, so far as Troop C, members of which patrol Ulster county is concerned will be found in the annual report of Captain Fox, commander of the troop, whose headquarters are at Sidney, from which point he directs the movements of the members of the troop, whose duties cover several counties.

According to Captain Fox's report, the men of his troop covered more than 600,000 miles during the year just ended. To be exact, mounted patrols covered 41,395 miles, automobile patrols 31,436 miles and motorcycle patrols 249,125 miles.

They made 2,945 investigations without arrests, recovered stolen property of the value of $60,786.15 and had fines imposed totaling $57,311. They recovered 53 stolen automobiles, killed 12 dogs and gave 16 warnings.

Arrests made totaled 6,987 and the number of convictions was 6,558. Only 163 of those arrested were discharged and there are only 265 cases pending. In old cases 97 convictions were had and 66 were discharged. The greatest number of arrests for any one offense was for reckless driving, the number being 3,932, with 3,892 convictions.

A study of these figures will show that the State Troopers do not make arrests indiscriminately, but only after investigation, which is probably the reason for the high percentage of convictions and the universal respect in which the Troopers are held.

Ellenville Case Raises Interesting Question of Right of Justice of The Peace to Impose Sentence on Three Kerhonkson Men

Also Known as Miss Beatrice Kelsey, Who Recently Gave Birth to Baby, Is Found Dead In Bed at Ortale Home

Judge Hasbrouck was asked in special term of the Supreme court Saturday to determine the powers of a justice of the peace in imposing sentence in a case and to decide whether Morris, Reuben and Harry Miller of Kerhonkson should pay either a fine of $25 each or serve 25 days in the county jail. The case grew out of an alleged assault action brought by Harry Cohen, a rival merchant of Kerhonkson, against the three Millers. It is alleged the Millers assaulted a young girl last November.

On November 2 a charge of assault, third degree, was lodged against the Millers and the case was tried before Justice of the Peace Percy Moore at Ellenville. After hearing the facts Mr. Moore found the three guilty and on request of their counsel an adjournment was taken for a time before sentence was imposed.

He then sentenced them to three months in the county jail but sentence was imposed and failure to pay, in the court said, would result in spending 25 days in jail, or one day for each dollar of the fine.

Further adjournments were taken in order to allow the defendants time to get the necessary $25. The case was adjourned from time to time but finally there came a time when sentence was put into effect and when the men failed to pay the $25 each, they were brought to jail to serve the 25 days. Van R. Moffit had appeared for the defendants at Ellenville. However, when they came to jail, Frank W. Brooks was retained and immediately swore out habeas corpus writs against the sheriff and the three men were released from jail, the theory being that Judge Moore had erred in imposing sentence and had imposed two distinct sentences, one a jail sentence, which was suspended and then he imposed a fine or another jail sentence. Mr. Brooks held that the form of commitment was illegal and that the judge erred in making out the commitment and had not complied with the provision of the civil practice act governing the case.

Justice Moore Produces Docket. Saturday Judge Hasbrouck was called on to determine the legality of the papers and the legality of the sentence. Judge Moore was present with his docket book and was sworn. He read the sentence from his docket book which was a sentence to jail for three months and a suspension of that sentence and a further sentence of a fine of $25 or 25 days in jail. This, Mr. Brooks held was a double sentence and illegal.

Judge Hasbrouck stated that it appeared there had been a double sentence but he believed the rule to be that when a judge imposes two sentences, the last one was the one which ought to be recognized by the courts. However, he took the papers in the case and reserved decision.

LeRoy Lounsbury appeared for the Cohen interests. District Attorney Traver appeared for Sheriff Rice against whom the writ was directed and F. W. Brooks appeared for the Millers.

Mr. Lounsbury cited cases which he held were an authority to show that the sentence last imposed by the court was legal and insisted that it would be an injustice to allow the Millers to go unpunished after the court had found them guilty, even though the form of the sentence was not strictly in accordance with the practice.

Popular Police Officer Confined to Kingston City Hospital With Injuries Sustained Sunday—No Bones Broken, Condition Good.

Policeman Walter Fitzgerald is confined to the Kingston City Hospital with injuries sustained Sunday when knocked down by an automobile driven by Charles Fierce of 172 Flatbush avenue at Broadway and Cedar street. Officer Fitzgerald sustained injuries to his left arm and his right hip but an X-ray taken at the hospital this morning showed that no bones were fractured, and his condition is good. He was also badly bruised about the body.

From the report of the accident as made to police headquarters, Officer Fitzgerald was crossing Broadway at Cedar street when he was struck. Al Vogel and Martin Mann, who were driving past, stopped and picked him up and placing him in Vogel's automobile hurried him to the hospital where he was examined by Dr. Fred Snyder, police surgeon, and had his wounds dressed.

At the time there was a light misty rain falling and Mr. Fierce reported to the police that he did not see Officer Fitzgerald until he had struck him. Mr. Fierce is employed by Max Abel, the Hasbrouck avenue butcher.

Several years ago Officer Fitzgerald, sustained a broken ankle while employed by Everett & Treadwell. He was engaged in piling up sacks of flour in the warehouse when the sacks suddenly toppled over and he was buried under a ton of flour. He recovered from his injuries at that time and a year later was able to successfully pass the required mental and physical examinations of the civil service board and was appointed a member of the police force where he has proven one of its most efficient members.

First Paint in Twelve Years For Nicaragua

Also Known as Miss Beatrice Kelsey, Who Recently Gave Birth to Baby, Is Found Dead In Bed at Ortale Home

For the first time in about 12 years the office of the district attorney in the court house has been treated to a coat of paint. The outer office and the private office of Mr. Traver have been repainted and redecorated and present a neat appearance. A storage vault and filing room for papers has been constructed at the rear of the inner office, in an unused room in the old jail. This filing room fills a long desired need and provides storage room and filing space for legal papers and documents, until the completion of this room into storage space the office of the district attorney was without suitable space for caring for the mass of legal documents which have accumulated during a number of years.

Two Miners Dead, 24 Missing

Following Explosion in Industrial Coal Mine—Cause of Blast Not Determined—Doctors and Nurses Summoned.

West Frankfort, Ill., Jan. 9 (AP).—Two miners were known to have been killed and 24 were missing four hours after an explosion today in the Industrial Coal Company's mine No. 18 near here.

The cause of the explosion was not determined. It occurred in the section known as "the first east north" 690 feet below the surface.

George Watkins, the first man to make his way to the surface from the explosion area, reported seeing several men apparently dead and others struggling as if they were injured.

Watkins said he crawled on his hands and knees to an air shaft through which he escaped. He said he did not know the cause of the explosion, which occurred about one mile from the bottom of the shaft just after the day shift had gone on duty at 7:30.

Mine officials said after-damp, which formed after such explosions, often caused more deaths than the blasts themselves. Brattices, or temporary canvas partitions were moved into the section in an effort to re-establish air circulation.

An emergency hospital was established near the mine and doctors and nurses were hastily summoned to give first aid to the injured.

Two Killed in Trolley Mishap

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Jan. 9 (AP).—Running at high speed down a hill, in a fog, a trolley car of the Schenectady Railway Company jumped the tracks at a curve in this village, smashed into a tree and then rolled down a 25 foot embankment, killing two persons and causing serious injuries to another. The car was demolished.

The men killed were John Norton of Schenectady, conductor, and William Martin, a passenger. Norton was instantly killed, and Martin was dead when his body was removed from beneath the wreckage.

There were only two passengers on the car at the time of the crash, and one of them, Michael Miller, also known as Tony Sinkowsky, of Rosford, was injured and removed to a hospital at Saratoga Springs. The other passenger, Nicholas Jacobitt, of Schenectady, was not hurt.

The motorman escaped injury. It was said, that because of the fog he did not realize that he was so near the curve at the foot of the grade.

U. S. Marines Sail From Three Ports

Force of 2,400 When Marines from East and West Coast Units With Those at San Diego Arrive to Eliminate Sardinia Before August Elections.

Washington, Jan. 9 (AP).—The oft-recurring picture of American marines sailing for duty in foreign lands was afforded at three port cities today as reinforcements for the Nicaragua campaign departed from San Diego, Cal., Norfolk, Va., and Charleston, S. C.

At the head of the marines at Charleston was Major General John A. Lejeune, commander of the corps, who is bound for the Central American republic to further first hand information of the strife there involving his marines and the forces of the insurrection, Augustino Sandino.

In Charleston harbor were the cruisers Trenton, Raleigh and Milwaukee, designated to carry the Paris Island battalion of Leatherstock. The Trenton, flagship of the cruiser group, which is commanded by Rear Admiral George C. Day, assigned quarters to General Lejeune, while Brig-General Logan Feland, who is to command the augmented marine force in Nicaragua, will travel aboard the Raleigh.

The bulk of the marine force from the east was at Hampton Roads, Va., where the minelayer Ogata put in to take 450 enlisted men and officers aboard. About the same number of men were assembled at San Diego, with the minelayer Argonne assigned to them as transport.

The Norfolk contingent, comprising nearly half of the hastily formed Eleventh Regiment, is commanded by Colonel Robert H. Dunlap. Most of the men are veterans, and none is being taken to Nicaragua who has less than six months to serve of his enlistment. Good-byes, reminiscent of World War days, were said at the marine base yesterday as the men and officers equipped themselves for a long campaign.

When the 1,000 marines from the east and west coasts unite with the men now on the scene, the force in Nicaragua will approximate 2,400. They will devote their activities, General Lejeune said before leaving Washington yesterday, to eliminate Sandino from the "otherwise peaceful" Nicaraguan horizon before the August elections.

Gray Fox and Goat, Krimmer and Beaver Trail Along in the Triumphant Wake of Lynx-Coats. It Appears, Must Be Black This Winter

Paris—The great success of the black coat, usually collared with natural lynx, seems to be a forerunner of other black coats trimmed with other light and dashing furs. While lynx leads by more than the proverbial mile, gray fox is coming along apace. The point seems to be that the coat must be black. The fur, however, may be varied.

A coat that will appeal to the woman who is inclined to sports and tailored effects, has a high turn-over collar and a fur facing to the hem, of gray goat, a curly fur not unlike tinsel, a fur, by the way, that the Parisienne sometimes chooses for her entire coat. The coat in question has been seen in black with gray goat and in gray cloth, the feature

Velvet and Lace Back
Among Season's Fashions

Late Fashion Notes of Interest to All Women

Hats of felt and velvet are most charming when carried out in wistaria color.

The new tailored blue suit's sport gay vests of Russian cross work in vivid colors worked on oyster linen.

Gold jewelry, consisting of necklaces, bracelets, earrings, etc., is worn with the new costumes that are so chic.

The scarf of the hour is a square of silk, either striped or in squares. It is worn about the throat much as a man wears his muffler.

The new velvet that is transparent is so lovely that a great success is predicted for it. Beautiful new coats are now shown in black. They are equally suitable for afternoon or evening wear.

The smartest little coat of all, for the small maiden of six, is made of soft wool in delicate colors, with much good embroidery upon the collar, cuffs and pockets.

Many of the smartest new evening wraps are cut a bit shorter than the frocks, so that one glimpses long ends and trailing draperies. The effect is delightfully feminine and graceful.

Sparkling indeed is the new costume jewelry for evening. Combinations of emeralds and rhinestones are particularly popular and many pieces can be obtained in the same design.

The little girl who goes to school in a plaid skirt and a tan sweater is sure to be a well-dressed little girl. The sweaters come in several different models.

A welcome change from the silver fox neckpiece now so much worn are those made of two sable skins that can be twisted loosely about the throat.

A short jacket with flared skirt is made by a French designer and modeled after the blue coat of a French soldier. It is double breasted and trimmed with fur dyed to match the blue of the coat.

Close-fitting felts are wonderfully becoming this season, especially the ones that are cut in a straight line with the eyebrows and down over the ears like ear-flaps.

The two-skirt frock is a new, charming and practical innovation. Over a straight-line frock of black silk is an extra skirt which is gracefully gathered and which can be used, if one prefers, as a shoulder cape. The only note of color is the gold metal ends to the three bows which adorn the front of the blouse.

In both instances being two narrow lines of black cloth applied to the edge of the fur.

It seems, even with midwinter at hand, that the fur-trimmed cloth coat is even more fashionable than the all-fur coat. Among the trimming features are the large, sometimes almost-elbow length, cuffs employed, this being true both for lynx, when the cuffs are straight, and for krimmer, when they either curve, melon-shape, or flare after the fashion of the butcher's cuff.

Flat furs are usually made into exceedingly high collars, the line being out from, rather than close to, the throat. This is another reason for the popularity of the close-fitting hats, the hats could hardly be smaller than they are at the moment, nor being of black felt, more inconspicuous.

Paris Dressmaker Says
No "Prevailing Fashion"

There is no such thing as "the prevailing fashion" or "the prevailing mode" in women's clothes, declares Madeleine Vionnet, famous Paris dressmaker, in the Delinquent. Mrs. Vionnet strongly deprecates the constant cry of American women for what they term "new modes."

"The mode," says the Parisian couturier, "no longer consists for me of anything more than the best manner of draping a given fabric over a given woman, so that each shall show off the other to the best possible advantage. Every woman ought to have her own manner of dress, her 'mode'—and this is the mode which I should be only too happy to seek for each if she would only follow it. Women ought only to ask of our skill and our experience the ability to bring out their own selves, not to create for them a uniform of which they will rapidly tire, forcing us to constant change. Women, according to their age and their natural conformation, may be divided into four or five well defined categories, and it is very rare for the mode of one season to dress decently more than one or two of these types."

Words Most Used

Analysis of business letters, newspapers and ordinary correspondence has produced a list of 50 words said to be used more frequently than any others:

"The, and, of, to, I, a, is, that, you, for, it, was, is, will, as, have, not, with, be, your, at, we, on, he, by, but, my, this, his, which, dear, from, are, all, me, so, one, if, they, had, has, very, were, been, would, she, or, there, her, an."

The first 12 words make, on the average, 30 out of every 100 words commonly used. The 50 words run 50 to the 100 in all ordinary writing. Only one of the 50, "very," has more than one syllable.

WAYS WITH MEATS

Hungarian Steak.—Scald large cabbage leaves. Roll after filling with chopped meat, one egg and one-half cupful of cooked rice, all well seasoned. Fasten with toothpicks, put into a kettle and cover with boiling water, cook one hour.

Spiced Steak.—Take one flank steak. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one large onion finely cut, fry until a rich brown. Remove the onion. Cut the steak into serving-sized pieces, dredge with flour, fry in the butter. Remove the meat, add hot water, salt and pepper, thicken the gravy and pour all into a casserole and bake until tender. Add three table-

Mock Duck.—Sift pork tenderloins and stuff with poultry stuffing, sew up, season well on the outside, dot with bits of butter, add a little hot water and bake an hour.

Grilled Steak.—Chop a medium-sized onion fine, dredge it with two teaspoonfuls of flour and fry in hot bacon fat to a light brown. Add two pounds of round steak cut into pieces, season well with salt and paprika. Add one cupful of canned tomatoes, drained; add sufficient water to cover. Cook slowly two hours on the back of the range.

Head Cheese.—Take equal parts of pig's feet and veal and pig's head. Clean thoroughly. Put into a kettle with water to cover, adding salt. Skim the scum as it rises. When the meat leaves the bones take it from the liquor in a skimmer, place in a chop-pling bowl, remove all bones and chop fine. Strain the liquor. The next morning remove all fat. Add sage, onion chopped fine, a little vinegar, roll up and pour over the meat. Let stand to chill.

Superior Women Raise Men to Higher Level

In a marriage where the two people are of unequal birth or tradition, it is better that the wife be of superior grade because she is much more likely to lift the marriage and the children to her cultural level, according to Rhein Childs Dorr in an article in Liberty.

"An inferior wife," explains the author, "too often drags the husband down, because, alas, the male of the species finds it only too easy to slump. Robert Louis Stevenson noted this among the missionaries of the South seas. The men, he tells us, 'after a few years grow careless of dress and behavior, neglect to shave or bathe, and in extreme cases practically go native. The women, on the contrary, hardly change at all, but after 20 years among natives live, dress, and act exactly as they did at home.'"

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

"Unscrupulous" ManIs Offered Many Jobs

Baltimore, Md. — Describing himself in an advertisement in which he sought work as "thoroughly unscrupulous" and "with no references," George Boppe of Fintona recently said he received 25 offers within a few hours. "Some," he said, "were from persons who had an occasional piece of dirty work; others from those who wanted a brackman."

Formerly of East Orange, N. J., Boppe said he was a college man and had worked at many trades. "I have no references; I can't get a job," he continued, "so I concluded to seek work that didn't require a reference."

Washington.—Measurement of members of the national house and senate is to be attempted during the present term of congress by Dr. Arthur Macdonald, anthropologist, in an effort to determine the physical status of the American people.

Dr. Macdonald, author of scientific books, will try also to arrive at mental and physical proportions of the citizenry of 30 other nations through similar examination of their legislative bodies, which he is endeavoring to arrange with the co-operation of the State department.

He believes members of congress to represent, both mentally and physically, the American people.

The anthropologist purposes also to compare various groups of congressmen as to legislative ability, predominant lineage, sociological condition and physical status, after which he will calculate the relation between these factors.

He hopes that the work may lead presently to similar classification of legislatures by states, so that there will be established eventually a comparison between the legislatures of different nations and national groups.

He explains why he is selecting lawmakers as the basis for his tests: "The physical measurements of members of congress represent the anthropological status of the whole country much better than measurements of any other body of men. More important still, these measurements will be a basis for the health of the nation."

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The Doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't tell if your digestion is bad; you are to get sick unless you relax your food, digest it properly, and keep your bowels regular.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles of every kind, even those of many years' standing. Read what Mrs. Ellen White of 21 Sanger St., New Hartford, N. Y., writes us: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I tried several ways to get relief, but with no result until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, it's a sign you need Tanlac. It's good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks—nature's own remedies. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Uncommon Sense

SYSTEMS

A SYSTEM is all right as long as it doesn't run counter to common sense.

The Nordic races are rather fond of systems. They have systems of government, systems of trade, systems of learning. Sometimes the rulers of a country set up a particular system and stake everything on it, as Germany did with her system of military training and as Russia is now doing with the Soviet system.

As long as a system is the servant of thinking men, it may be practicable. But give it its head and it becomes impersonal and static.

It can then easily deteriorate into mere red tape.

The directors of a firm where I worked once had a system for advancing their workers. Every employee who remained with the firm one year received a raise of five dollars.

It made no difference what kind of work that employee did so long as it reached a certain standard of quality. If one employee was much more capable than another he received no extra benefit. Both got five-dollar raises at the end of the year.

These employees were not unionized, and they were not doing manual labor. The system was not forced upon the firm, but was evolved by one of the directors.

No doubt it saved wear and tear on the directors' minds. When a capable employee came to ask for a raise the employer merely had to point to the system and tell him to wait for it to act.

What were the results of this system? One was that as soon as they could find other jobs, all the capable men left the firm.

Another was that the directors became mentally lazy and the firm became stodgy and unprogressive.

Red tape and progress never get along well together.

Government departments are perhaps the most notorious examples of what system can do. Everything must be done in the routine manner. No matter how pressing the case, it is dealt with exactly as thousands of others are dealt with. Everything goes into the same hopper and through the same slow bureaucratic mill.

We have another example of system in our modern standardized education. Pupils who are entirely dissimilar in abilities and tastes are nevertheless given exactly the same educational fare.

Systematized instruction is cheap. But cheapness does not always denote worth. It usually denotes something quite different.

Systems undoubtedly save thought, time and money. They are often indispensable. But when they curtail thought they become expensive, even though they economize on the other two items.

PA AND MA CAN'T TALK EACH OTHER'S TONGUE

Children Interpret and Family Spats Are Unknown.

Man.—The man who married a woman who speaks more than a dozen languages is in the Philippines. It accurately describes a matrimonial situation which seems curiously prevalent in these tropic isles.

Of course the wives in question are not actually dumb. But to all intents and purposes they might as well be. They are dumb by force of circumstances, as it were. For their husbands can't speak their language, nor can they speak the tongue of their lords and masters.

Throughout the Far East it is common for white foreigners to marry women of the country in which they settle. Somewhere save in the Philippines, however, does a practically complete lack of verbal contact seem at all prevalent. Perhaps it is the vernal climate, which is not conducive to the mental exertion required in learning a new language. In any case, examples of this strange mating are not hard to find.

Children Speak Three Languages.

In one case the wife is a pure blooded Filipino woman who speaks both Spanish and the Tagalog dialect, but no English. The husband speaks English only. They have two children, who do quite well in all three languages and now serve as family interpreters.

Another odd case was found in the union of a Japanese woman and an American. Neither speaks the other's language, though in Japan such unions ordinarily result in each picking up a smattering of the other's speech at once. The situation seemed so extraordinary that an interpreter was obtained in order to query the wife in detail. Said she:

"You see, my husband works at night and he stays home and sleeps in the daytime. I work during the day and sleep at night. We hardly see each other and don't talk at all. Inconvenient not to be able to talk. When we want to converse we can always find somebody handy to interpret."

It Has Its Advantages.

Observers of these speechless matings point out that they have certain striking advantages over the ordinary sort. There is no chance for a quarrel, because neither can start it. Intellectual friction isn't likely to develop where there is no exchange of views. Neither can be bored with the other's conversation. Ill feeling is avoided by the absence of temptation to "have the last word," for where there isn't any first word there can't very well be a last one.

On the other hand, the wife has to go out and tell the neighbors when she detects several pesos missing from the weekly pay envelope. There is no chance to settle the matter within the family circle. Also, if the husband feels that the food isn't appearing fast enough or in sufficient quantity, he is handicapped in making his ideas known.

Fed by the Lions

The staple diet of the African bushman is the leftover kills of the lion. The animal invariably announces his kill on the African night air and the bushman who hears his cry indicates the direction by pointing an arrow. At daylight he looks in that direction for the carcasses, and in this manner he locates the carcasses of the lion, and driving the bird scavengers away he takes their place and eats his fill. The women and children follow the men to the spot and are allowed to partake. If anything is left the vultures may have it.

English Rats Eat Food Worth 500 Million

London.—Rats and mice eat $500,000,000 worth of food in the British Isles every year, according to Sir Thomas Horder, physician to King George.

In an address to the college of pestology Sir Thomas gave the following explanation as to how the computation was made:

"It is computed that there are as many rats in Great Britain as there are human beings, which is about 44,000,000. Each rat eats 2 cents' worth of food per day or 88,000,000 cents per day, which is equal to around $330,000,000 per annum. A mouse, it is computed, eats 1 cent's worth of food per day. Assuming that there are about the same number of mice as rats, the total of $170,000,000 would be eaten annually by the mice."

Here's Highbrow Buddy to Something or Other

Athens, Ga.—A new "college fraternity" has sprung into full flower at the University of Georgia and its requirements for membership bid fair to make it one of the nation's most exclusive.

To qualify among the brethren of Sigma King, as the order is entitled, one must be an Ethiopian of prominent family connections, must be a butler at a recognized Greek letter fraternity house, must never have missed a football game in Athens since becoming a fraternity butler, and must wear only college clothes acquired from college men.

THE NEXT TWO MONTHS WILL BE HARD ON OLD PEOPLE

Piercing Cold is Difficult To Resist With Thin Blood and Failing Strength—FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Builds New Strength—Nourishes The Weak, Enfeebled System.

As lakes and rivers put on their overcoats of ice, and piercing winds howl round the home, the old folks cling closer to the fire and complain of the cold. Their blood is thin; their vitality is lowered; often, they are troubled with a distressing cough which they are unable to throw off, in their weakened condition.

Father John's Medicine was originally written by a practicing physician for just such a condition as this—to relieve a stubborn cough and cold—to heal the throat—and to supply ample nourishment to build up weak, ailing people.

Father John's Medicine helps to build up the system because it is all cod digest and convert into rich blood, strength and vigor. It is a safe medicine for anyone to use, because it is free from drugs and alcohol; and has had seventy years' success as a tonic and body builder and for colds and throat troubles, coughs and sore throat.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 9. (AP)—Price movements lack uniformity in the stock market. Standard Oil, particularly after the call money rate was marked up from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent, but aggressive bullish speculation by state and federal officers was conducted in a small way. The market was the opinion last night of trading failed to measure up to the torrid pace of last week.

Higher call money rates followed the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans, which was expected in view of the sharp decline in reserve shown in last Saturday's Clearing House statement. Otherwise, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement.

A steel common was reaction. Yellow Truck was bid up more than 2 points, but all the other metals were stationary. The announcement of an increase in Hudson Motor prices caused some surprise, following as it did a series of price reductions on models of other manufacturers.

Bulls attracted more of an investment following Texas and Pacific secured six points to a new record high at 107, Bangor and Aronstock common was bid up 3 1/2 points, and Missouri Pacific preferred advanced 2.

GOSPEL CRUSADE MEN

TO ATTEND MASS MEETING

The regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the Ulster County Gospel Crusaders was well attended Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Bedford, pastor of the Bloomingville Reformed Church, spoke most inspiringly on "The Temptations of Jesus" and his remarks were thankfully received by all present.

The most unusual fact at this service was the attendance of men who happened to be in the majority. The men decided to attend the mass meeting at St. James Church next Sunday so the ladies will have charge of the service at the Y. M. C. A. They invite all ladies to attend. Men will be welcome but the ladies suggest they hear Dr. Bancroft.

Many Uses for Airplanes

According to a survey completed by the United States Department of Commerce, airplanes have 136 different uses.

Having already proved that wood makes an excellent artificial silk, the experts in this new textile have turned their attention successfully to corn silk.

Battalion May Go to Po'keepsie

Possibility that the battalion headquarters of the National Guard at Kingston will be moved to Poughkeepsie and housed in the armory with Battery C of the 156th Field Artillery, may be realized after the inspection by state and federal officers. Captain R. M. Rosen, commander of Battery C, says the Poughkeepsie Eagle News of today.

Captain Rosen emphasized that what has been said with regard to this possibility is entirely discussion and that no decisions have been made. While there is no particular honor paid to a city by locating a headquarters in it, the act might mean advancement of a lieutenant in Battery C to captain, he said. At present, Captain Rosen explained, Batteries A and B and battalion headquarters and combat train of the 156th are located at Kingston and there is a shortage of men to keep up the minimum strength of these organizations.

The inspection will be made by Lieutenant Colonel Allen A. Reagan for the state and by Captain David S. Rumbough for the federal government.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

PASSING OBSTRUCTIONS

WATCH two men walking together and you will be surprised to see how many couples, when they come to an obstruction like a post, or a tree, or, perhaps, a barrel placed on the sidewalk to cover a temporary excavation, will take care to pass together on the same side. Many men who would scout the idea that they are superstitious will, nevertheless, be extremely careful in this respect. For it "breaks friendship" if they pass the obstacle on different sides.

Primarily this superstition is the survival of what was, to our savage ancestors, no superstition at all, but only a usage born of the exigencies of savage life. Two members of the same tribe, making their way through the dark forests of Northern lands into which the civilization of the Mediterranean shores had not yet penetrated, knew that, lurking about them in the wilderness were savage beasts and no less savage enemies—and they kept close together for safety's sake. To allow even the bole of a tree to interfere between them might mean that one would be fatally attacked before his companion could assist in his defense. For mutual support, for companionship, they instinctively kept close together and instinctively still their descendants turn out of their way to avoid passing on opposite sides of a post. And to this is added a subconscious influence of symbolism—the division between the two should the post be between them suggesting severed friendship.

Venicians First to Restore Fading Sight

After visiting the University exhibition in Rome, with its quaint and magnificent collections, says a correspondent of the Baltimore Evening Sun, there can remain no doubt in one's mind as to the fact that Italy has been the mother of spectacles. Professor Albertotti, a professor at the University of Padua and dean of the oculists of Italy, collected a number of ancient and modern books about spectacles, and illustrated this valuable material in a treatise which he dedicated to Senator Isidoro del Lungo. The latter had attributed the invention of spectacles for short-sighted and long-sighted persons to the Dominican monk, Fra Alessandro della Spina, of Pisa.

But Professor Albertotti, whose authority in this matter is unchallenged, is of the opinion that the glory of first making spectacles must be attributed to Venice, the home of glass and pure crystal. From the codex of the "Capitolari della Arti" of the state of Venice, dated 1201, it is found that severe penalties were applied to dishonest spectacle makers who used simple glass instead of pure crystal.
